I think Bush's wiretaps are illegal, but I am glad that it is being done. I would let it slide if I were a prosecutor only if I found that it was being used ONLY against terrorism and that not a single charge unrelated to the war on terrorism, had been filed as a result of these wiretaps. I think that he can justify breaking the law as self-defense. You can justify an illegal act if you did it in the act of self defense. If Bush is using these secret wiretaps for anything else, and I mean anything, I would go after him to the fullest extent of the law. I think that we should profile people of Middle Eastern decent, too. Not every Muslim is a terrorist, but every terrorist is a Muslim.

As I recall, you were gung-ho for the impeachment of Bill Clinton for lying about a BJ in the White House. Ironical that you are willing to give Dubya a pass on something like this. Strange.

How is that ironic, or inconsistent? If he is using these wiretaps only as a tool against terrorism as he has said, then it is perfectly legal. What Mr. Clinton did, was commit a felony and point his finger at every U.S. citizen in a how dare you question me way. He thought he couldn't be uncovered. What an honest president that was. I'll tell you what the most ironic thing about you is the fact that you tell me that I am more consistent than my cohorts on the abortion/capital punishment debate. The Democrat party is far less consistent. Let's see: A man convicted of killing ten little girls, raping them and mutilating them with a knife: Your party, in general, would say "LET HIM LIVE". Now, a woman is pregnant with a baby that has its own heartbeat, brain waves, eyes, fingers, toes, lungs are breathing, it can feel pain, etc. Your party could care less if that innocent baby was mutilated by a doctor. That is why I call the Democrat party, the party of death. They embrace death, want a Bill of Rights for Al Queda, and IMO many of them hope we lose this war in Iraq simply because of their hatred for George W. These people hate domestically, more than they do abroad. In other words, your party likes Osama bin Laden, more than it likes Bush. As far as "The Final Solution" listen to Jimmy Carter. I am not sadistic, but I think the U.S. would be safer with him under a tombstone. He says that he wants to find ways around U.S. law (in essence encouraging illegal activity) to fund the Palestinians, whom by the way, have just demonstrated to the world their prevailing beliefs through the election of Hamas. A group that wants to wipe out the U.S. and Israel. Sharon really did it this time. This was the biggest national security blunder in Israel's history. Now the terrorists can roam freely right on the border of Israel and plot their attacks. Hasn't history already proven that appeasement does not work. I'll give a domestic example. For some reason unbeknownst to me, Democrats support a policy called affirmative action which is inherently racist against the majority of Democrats (pretty stupid IMO). Black people have more rights in this country than white people, yet on Martin Luther King Day you have idiots like Ray Nagin (yes, a Democrat) preaching along the lines of Black Power. No white politician would ever get away with that, but the liberal media will give him a pass simply because of his skin color. Liberals are willing to give up rights based on skin color. That is beyond idiotic. You want your son to be passed over for a job because of his skin color? By all means, support affirmative action professor Avery. Have you noticed that as more is given to minorities by the government, the minorities bitch even more, wanting more and more of a handout? I am telling you appeasement does not work. And, yes I would engage the entire Middle East in nuclear assault if I had the authority to do so. If there is a land where 90% of the people want to kill us and 10% are peaceful, I would kill the innocent to save millions of American lives, and most likely the planet Earth. These people from the "religion of peace" are going to be the end of civilization if we do not stop them. To not believe so is naive, because they basically tell us that that is their ultimate goal. You know why bin Laden hasn't struck in awhile? I don't think that it is because of good national security. I think it is because he is in the middle of carrying out the ultimate attack on the United States. Do you think that he will just try and hit one city at a time? He will do the same as he did on 9/11. He'll be holding up more and more fingers as city by city goes down because of nukes. Is this the guy that we should give sensitivity training to? Should we try and better understand why they hate us? Your party fails to comprehend the fact that "Kill 'em with kindness" does not apply. I guarantee the next attack will be brutal, and the only reason it will take place is because of Liberals facilitating the attacks. The ACLU is the biggest enemy of the United States and the biggest friend of bin Laden's. Too bad liberals are just so entrenched with this "give peace a chance" hippiness. The world will end because liberals will get in the way of conservative attempts to stop the destruction of the United States. I guarantee the framers of the Constitution would want to beat Ted Kennedy, Schumer, Boxer, Pelosi, Dick Durbin, etc. down to the ground for what they are doing to this country. I guarantee the framers would be Republicans. I'm out.

I'm not extremist, I'm left wing when it comes to the courts dealing with police. It may sound inconsistent, but I have beliefs that are even further left than yours probably are. I'm not ranting at you, I am just stating an opinion. This stuff is entertaining to me and I thought that you, time permitting, would also find debate amusing. I just want someone to point to good reasons why the right is wrong in its belief that we ought to profile Arabs. I think you would agree that that is the best way from keeping these (SD) scumbags from ending our country, and the world for that matter. We need to protect our country! I would engage further, but I am out of time. I am just wondering why the left calls me a racist for saying that I know (not believe) that black males have far more rights than I do. I am a racist for being pissed about that? You did not call me one, but that is what the ACLU, Diane Feinstein, Schumer, Dick Durbin, Ted Kennedy and all of the evil extremist left people would say. I would think you could rationalize with me because something like this WILL affect your son sooner or later. The opportunity is there for minorities. When they don't take advantage of it and get ahead, they blame the white man. Even Bill Cosby agrees with me. It is not racist, it is common sense. Love you anyway. Have a good day.

What's the difference between Muslim extremists and US militias? They all share a common characteristic: outrage and certainty. Outrage at everyone who does not agree with them and absolute certainty they alone are right. Plus, they are willing to kill people to prove it. So, let's also kill the militia members here in America???? 9A

Why is it that the Democrat party is the biggest defender of those who want to destroy us? It makes no logical sense to me. Is it for the same reason that they are for Affirmative Racism? So that, hopefully, the people they are fighting and screaming for will.....like them??? That is crazy! I cannot believe that you would compare the brutal savages in the Middle East to any group in the United States. I really cannot believe that. It furthers my notion that Democrats are Anti-American and they want to see the country turned into a cesspool of filth, where self-indulgence and the two finger peace sign are the most common things. Keep in mind that there were millions of Europeans who just wanted to please Hitler and let him have Poland in hopes that he would stop. It is very eerily similar to the Liberals who will fight tooth and nail to disallow our security agency to eavesdrop on calls coming from Al Queda into the United States. I can honestly not believe that that is even a topic of debate. Liberals will continue to ruin this country. I believe Michael Savage when he says that Liberalism is a mental disorder. I cannot see it any other way when you look at what the party's biggest concern is--Making damn sure that women can kill their babies, but people like Osama bin Laden do not deserve execution. Bill, you are such an eloquent and articulate seaker. You have really interesting stories to tell. Your classes were the most fun of any classes that I have taken at this university. I just do not see how you can support the causes of the Democrat Party. This party has been hijacked by the loony left (AKA Durbin, Kennedy, Clinton, Boxer Feinstein, Schumer). I think all of the people that I listed are evil vile people. Remember what I said about Affirmative Racism? It could possibly affect your son, but you still support it? I think the tables would turn a little if your son was in line for a job and was more qualified than a black man who was also applying for the job and your son had a wife and kids to feed at home. Would you say that Affirmativa Action should be used? I think not, but you'll support it so long as it doesn't affect you. Republicans are way more patriotic than Democrats. I remember you trying to convince our POLS 468 class that the Framers of the Constitution would be Democrats today. I still laugh at that one. Just because you are for change, does not mean you are for perpetual change. Perpetual change makes no sense. In closing, we should just let Al Queda do whatever they want, and if George Bush tries to do anything to them, we'll go out into the streets and protest where we will probably be killed by a suicide bomber who we were trying to defend. It's like a child trying to defend a vicious dog that keeps attacking him. The liberals think that if we kiss enough Al Queda ass, they will be nice to us and leave us alone. Bill, with your policies running the government, we would have a nuke go off in the U.S. within five years. Mark my words, if Hillary wins the next election, she will be so soft and want to go the route of 'sensitivity training' and we will be doomed. What your party fails to realize is that being nice to Al Queda and constantly speaking out against Bush and publicly saying how you think Al Queda deserves humane treatment, is not going to make bin Laden like you guys. Sorry for the rant, but it just pains me to see liberals want to destroy everything that millions of brave souls gave their lives to achieve. Keep in mind that I am not using a venomous tone against you, but I have to clear up the fallacies.

In other news, what did you think of NU's recruiting class? I'm telling you, we are going to be bad-ass in a couple of years that is, if Al Queda doesn't destroy us first because of Liberals aiding them (just kidding). One of my first classes was Foreign Policy and that was in the summer of '03. You were not there the first day of class and you had Kate take over for you. Anyway, I remember asking about you to a girl sitting next to me and she said that you were awesome and that they called you Wild Bill. She said on the last day of class that you invited the students 21 and over to go have a few drinks on you. I was hoping you would do that, but it never surfaced. Is this true? Oh, and I agree with her that you are pretty cool. You were my favorite instructor from any class and I have accumulated over 130 credit hours, so it says a lot. Even though you're a liberal bum, I'll take you under my wing when the bad times come. I even have extra food for you in my bomb shelter. Take care.

Well, I was responding to your falsity about U.S. militias and I went off. Do U.S. militias want to kill innocent people? In general, I think they are anti-government. Muslim terrorists use children as suicide bombers to kill other innocent people. There is no comparison. Also, your response is tainted with a falsity about me. Vile and angry? I was just correcting you and offered you a chance for rebuttal. You are a Political Science professor!!!! You cannot tell me that you discourage debate when you have previously told me that you love to debate. I also specifically said that the party was hijacked by the loony left. Two of those people happen to be Michael Moore and Al Franke, with whom, by your own admission, you have a favorable view of. It is people like that who are vile and full of hate. They don't offer solutions to our problems. Instead of looking for solutions, they are caught up in a hate-Bush campaign. They won't win elections that way. Do you think Jimmy Carter took advantage of Coretta King's funeral for political purposes? Those are the angry, vile people. While it does anger me to an extent when we are in the middle of fighting a war against turbin wearers, I don't go out and get in the face of liberals, I just ask for explanations to which none can be given. A perfect example is your ignoring of my questions. I'm not trying to go for your throat, just asking why things are the way that they are and you do not answer the questions. That makes me assume that I am right and that I should not doubt my convictions. I know I have an extremist view of the Middle East and that it would be at the expense of millions of people's lives, but can you honestly tell me that my solution wouldn't make the West a much much safer place. DON'T MISCONSTRUE MY EMAIL, I am not responding to you in an angry fashion. I am in a perfectly good mood. Your opinion has no bearing on how I move on with my life, but yet I do care what you think about me because you are a professor who has had much influence on me (in the opposite way that you would have liked to), and I think you're a good person, just misguided. I know it might be insulting to hear that from a measly student who has 1/10 the intellect as you do, but it is just a friendly opinion, and if I ever see you on campus, I'll say hi. I am not a prick and I am not trying to get under your skin. Maybe I could be more articulate when posing my questions. I love debating, though. Furthermore, you are the only Political Science instructor with whom I have an informal relationship with. I did ask you on three occasions if you would take an hour out of your day and act as an advisor to me. That should have showed you the respect that I had for you. You ignored me and then said that you were busy with emails and may have missed them, but you have answered every other email of mine that had to deal with politics. That disappointed me. As far as ending something (as you said at the close of your email), we never started anything in my opinion. I told you not to mistake the tone of my emails and I think you do. Have a good day. Darren,

I am tired of this shit. You have accused me of being anti-American, unpatriotic, and having a mental disorder, among other things. I find this offensive and I will not engage in anymore of this with you. I served my country in uniform honorably for four years. How many have you served? Since you are so pure, so pro-American, so absolutely correct, and wonderfully patriotic, I suggest you sign-up for duty in Iraq right away and put all your claims to the test. But, of course, you will not do that. You, Michael Savage, and the "Chicken Hawks" in the Bush Administration don't have the guts!!

Fuck you! You don't know me one bit. You are a liberal American coward. If it were up to you, you would imprison Bush before bin Laden because you have such a fascination with it. I am tired of your brainwashing students who are in the process of molding their minds. I spent 18 months in Pensacola Florida before I was honorably discharged for a neck injury. You can go fuck yourself if you are going to get that way. I'd kick your ass had you said that right in front of me, but YOU don't have the guts to say that. If you think you do, just try me. You have done nothing for this country, but bad things in recent years. Once again, if you have the courage to say that to my face, I'll let you do it, but don't you EVER talk anything about the military with me. We call you people turncoats and I'll be damned if I'm going to take that kind of disrespect from someone who is so clueless as to my military background. As long as we're on the topic, how many years did your hero Clinton serve? You contradict yourself so much that I want to puke. Your website is also a farce. You lie so much and don't show the true you. I guess, you're a politician.

against my own values and you do not have to believe me, but it does. That is why I sent you another email explaining my situation. As I said, that really hurt when you said that I do not have the guts to sign up for military duty. The majority of my family (two brothers, my dad, and four uncles) has performed long military tenures. I would never touch you Bill. You would probably whoop me anyway. Please at least give me the benefit of the doubt. You have performed military service honorably and I respect that. It is also the reason that I understand why you were so upset when I inferred that you were a Benedict Arnold. I do not feel that way about you, I do with the extreme left wing of your party. Michael Savage does not represent all of my views and you do make a point with that. Will you at least accept my apology. I genuinely feel bad about what transpired. Not because you are threatening to turn this over to the police, but because that is the way I actually feel. You have taught me a lot about Latin American politics, Organizing World Order and USA Foreign Policy. You did not deserve any of the emails that I sent you. I just wanted to debate someone whom, I believe, is very knowledgeable with the opposite point of view that I foster. Anymore, politics in this country are so divided and that is what I hate to see. If those buildings would have never went down on 9/11, I would never have become such a loose canon when it comes to politics. I was never this way in any of your classes, despite the fact that 9/11 had already passed. It just hits closer to home when you have many friends who are in Iraq and many friends who have been there. I have learned a lesson here to not respond to things that upset me until I have collected myself. I believe I have made a complete ass out of myself to my favorite instructor from UNL. I'm sorry professor Avery and I hope you will forgive me. You're a good person and you shouldn't have to email me what you just did. Please understand that I feel bad about this. I wish you the best of luck on your campaign. I honestly did not even mean what I said about your website. I was just angry and going for the jugular. I need to know my audience. A man who has dedicated his life to teaching Political Science, achieved tenure at a major university, and become a Husker fan from Tulane deserves my respect and not a venomous email. I agree with much of what Savage says, but I have always said that he is too disrespectful to his audience and too angry, in general. I love his viewpoints, but not how he goes off. I have said that to people and now I have just done what he does on a daily basis. Have a good weekend Bill, and I apologize for disrespecting you.
